

Beyond the Browser

Who could have known on September 4, 1998, that the strange term google would come to be used in hundreds of languages across the planet? Twenty-seven years after the company's September creation, Google has become a part of our everyday lives. Google's internet search engine and email are its most well-known tools, but that technology is small potatoes compared to what Google hopes to achieve in the future.

Google began at Stanford University in California. Two PhD students, Larry Page and Sergey Brin, wanted a better way to search for information on the internet. Their mission statement was "to organize the world's information and make it universally accessible and useful." New Google projects hope to do that and so much more.

One Google innovation is the self-driving car, now commercialized through Waymo, an Alphabet company. Waymo vehicles—based on partnerships with Jaguar, Geely, and others—have driven millions of miles autonomously. Experts argue that these vehicles may soon surpass human drivers in safety and efficiency, especially in controlled urban environments.

In the home, Google has expanded its smart tech through Nest, offering learning thermostats, security systems, and voice-activated controls. You can adjust your lights, start your coffee, or monitor your front door using just your phone or voice.

X, Alphabet's research division, continues to pursue ambitious projects, including drone delivery, wildfire detection, and sustainable energy solutions. Its goal remains the same: to tackle global problems with breakthrough technology that pushes the limits of what's possible.

Mythic Mateys

September 19 means it's once again Talk Like a Pirate Day. Does this mean we should go around spouting "Arrgh" and "Ahoy, matey"? Researchers chalk up this type of pirate speech as nothing but Hollywood hoopla.

Many real pirates from the Golden Age of piracy most likely spoke like any other river-dwelling Londoner. After all, pirates were often former English-speaking merchant sailors. Most pirate myths—from speech patterns to parrots, eye patches to peg legs—come from the book Treasure Island by Robert Louis Stevenson. When Disney turned the book into a movie in 1950, actor Robert Newton's portrayal of Long John Silver became the benchmark for nearly every pirate to follow. Perhaps September 19 should be named Talk Like Robert Newton Day instead? Aye aye!

September Greetings to all our Friends & Family

I hope this newsletter finds you all happy & healthy.

Can you believe how fast the Summer of 2025 went by? I cannot believe that the Fall season is right around the corner. The trees will be changing, the weather will be getting colder, apple picking will be done and the pumpkin spice everything will be out before we know it!!

We had lots of fun events in the month of August. Our residents enjoyed many Life Enrichment programs and activities! Be sure to check out our Facebook page (Warde Senior Living) to see all of the great pictures from our August events. Our residents had so much fun participating in these events and soaking up the last bits of sunshine and summertime!!

Please be sure you are staying as healthy as you can with the upcoming Fall season ahead. Warde Senior Living will be offering the FLU and new COVID vaccine to our residents, associates and contracted associates on October 15, 2025 courtesy of Shaw's/Osco Drug. This clinic will be held in the Gathering Room at WSL.

Special Days/Events in September: Please refer to the September Life Enrichment Calendar!

We will be celebrating National Assisted Living Week from September 7th – 13th. Our Life Enrichment associates are hard at work planning for this fantastic week for our residents. It will certainly be a fun week with many smiles & laughs. We encourage you to participate in the activities with your loved one! We will also be celebrating National Housekeeping & Environmental Services Week with recognition of our associates on Wednesday, September 17th and National Rehab Week with recognition of our Rehab associates on Thursday, September 18th.

For those of you sending little/big kids/grandkids off to school/college for a new academic year, we wish you and the student the best year yet, that is full of success & happiness!!

We wish everyone a fall season that is filled with warm & crisp family blessings!! As always, we, the associates, at Warde Senior Living, thank you for giving us the privilege of caring for your loved one. We are happy that you have placed your trust in us.

With Many Blessing for the changing seasons,

Shari L. LaRoche, MS LNHA
